

WELCOME

Dear Corporate Sponsor/Exhibitor,

The Connecticut Society of Eye Physicians is excited to offer a series of ophthalmology education virtually and has many opportunities for industry friends to participate on various levels.

This state-of-the-art series also features panel discussions with national educators on controversial issues and surgical techniques, lectures on drug therapies and other instructional CME presentations.

Our virtual events webinar partner is Zoom

This series presents a unique opportunity for you to interact with the members of CSEP over 250 strong, an organization representing over 92% of ophthalmologists practicing in Connecticut and display your innovations and drug therapies.

In this prospectus, you will find information on sponsorships, chat room and other digital advertising opportunities.

Your support is vital during these challenging times and our success depends upon our industry friends. Our goal is to educate our members and unite the CSEP community.

Mark you calendar and register for this important CSEP Series.

With best regards,

Deburah Osbar

Executive Director

Jonathan D. Trobe, MD

Professor of Ophthalmology and Neurology University of Michigan

I was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (USA) in 1943. At age 4, I moved with my family to Europe, where my father directed services to Holocaust survivors. I attended international schools in Vienna, Geneva, Rome, and Paris, graduating from high school in 1960.

In that year, I returned to the USA to attend Harvard College and Harvard Medical School, where I graduated in 1968. After a 1-year internship in internal medicine at Rush Presbyterian Medical School in Chicago, I began a 3-year residency in ophthalmology at the Wills Eye Institute in Philadelphia, where I served as chief resident in my final year.

From 1972 to 1974, I served as a major in the United States Air Force at Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, DC. With a plan to become a corneal surgeon, I entered a fellowship in corneal disease at the University of Florida. After serving on the faculty there for two years, I decided instead to become a neuro-ophthalmologist, doing a fellowship in that field at the University of Miami. In 1977, I returned to the University of Florida to direct the neuro-ophthalmology service. In 1983, I gave up my faculty position to complete a residency in neurology at the University of Miami.

After completing the neurology residency in 1986, I accepted a faculty position with joint appointments in ophthalmology and neurology at the University of Michigan, where I have been for 30 years. I am board-certified in ophthalmology and neurology. I have first-authored or co-authored over 150 peer-reviewed journal articles, first-authored or co-authored eight books, including The Physician's Guide to Eye Care (American Academy of Ophthalmology), The Field Guide to the Eyes (Lipppincott); The Neurology of Vision (Oxford), Clinical Decisions in Neuro-Ophthalmology (Mosby), and Rapid Diagnosis in Neuro-Ophthalmology (Elsevier). I am the author of an online and mobile app program called The Eyes Have It. I am associate editor for ophthalmology of the online general medical resource called Up To Date and associate editor for neuro-ophthalmology of the online neurology resource called Medlink Neurology. I served as editor of The Journal of Neuro-Ophthalmology, the official journal of the North American Neuro-Ophthalmology Society, from 2001 to 2010.
